Between Nationalism and Europeanisation: Narratives of National Identity in Bulgaria and Macedonia Nevena Nancheva

Why do we need European integration in increasingly fragmented and antagonised European societies? How can European integration relate to the national stories we carry about who we are as a nation and where we belong? What to do with the national stories that tell traumatising tales of past loss and sacrifice, and depict others as villains or foes? Can we still claim that our national states are the most legitimate way of organising European political communities today? Engaging with these big questions of European politics, Nancheva's book tells a small story from the periphery of Europe. It looks into two Balkan states – post-communist Bulgaria and Macedonia – to see how their narratives of national identity have changed in the context of Europeanisation and EU membership preparations. The book suggests that national identity and European integration might be more relevant than previously thought.
