Building Hope: What Happens When God Changes Our Plans to Accomplish His Dan Wallrath

What if God stepped into the noise of your life and invited you into what seems like a completely impossible undertaking, given the limited resources you have? Would you be willing to say yes?

Building Hope is a first person account of Dan Wallrath, a self-described “average Joe” who was preparing to retire when he felt an undeniable pull to help a specific group of heroes, providing them with mortgage-free custom-built homes. Dan shares the God-orchestrated events that led him to start Operation Finally Home (OFH) and gripping stories of new beginnings amidst physical, mental, and financial hardships that war-wounded soldiers and their families face once home from war.

With even a small amount of faith, you too can see God work in a mighty way as you seek to serve someone in need. God wants you to say yes—and then stretch out in faith with your unique talents and resources to further his kingdom and build hope around you today.
