In the "Virgin Widow" by Melina Barron:

Charlotte Hughes has had a tough life. She's been married, and widowed, in the same day. To top things off the authorities think she murdered her husband. And she's still a virgin.

After her year of mourning is over she's invited back into society by one of the ton's most eligible bachelors. But when she spies on his private life he decides to teach her a lesson by taking her over his knee, and introducing her into a whole new world.-the world of The Spanking Club.

In "Kindred Spirits" by Maren Smith:

When Mindy Caveat decided to go to town, she had no idea fate was about to change her life. The back roads of North Carolina are an easy place for the unwary to find trouble, and suddenly surrounded by the local town bullies, trouble is exactly what Mindy knows she's in. Until Colton Waters, a very unlikely knight in shining armor, happens by.

Never in her wildest dreams did Mindy—a confirmed and secret spankophile—ever think she'd find true love. Not in Redneck Central U.S.A. But Colton quickly proves not only does he know what she wants, he knows what she needs...and he's every bit man enough to give it to her!

In "Windfall" by Maura McMann:

Win MacAllister has a problem. His maiden aunt has decided that he needs to leave his life in Mac's Crossing, Colorado and move to Boston to run the family law firm. Win wants to stay where he's at, but knows that it will be hard to fight his strong-willed aunt.

But Win's brother, Ben, finds a windfall for Win: an actress who has been left behind by her acting troupe and owes a great deal of money to the hotel. Win offers to pay the bill, if she acts as his wife while his aunt is in town.

Vanessa Trump doesn't like the thought of being Win's "wife," but what choice does she have. It won't be for long, and then he'll pay her bill. She makes sure he knows that there won't be any sex involved in their arrangement. She just didn't know that she needed to specify that there would be no spankings, either. Book

One of The MacAllister Brothers.
