Li Wei

Li Wei

A man falls to earth headfirst, cutting into the ground and resting there, feet up, like an unexploded bomb. A young woman humors a playful pet, an artist's head, as it bites the hem of her skirt. Li Wei, a young Beijing performance artist, has begun to pop up in the American media, and with images like these, it's no wonder. He received his earliest significant public exposure following an impromptu event at the 2000 Shanghai Biennial, in which he put his head through a hole in a mirror and attended (and was ejected from) a crowded reception. Recent pieces, including the public Green Gay Flag and the private It Would Not Die Away Like Such, have been both politically and sexually daring. This first monograph catalogues the artist's perceptive and often funny insights into China today and tomorrow.

Rodolfo Buker:

As a college student exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher inquired them to go to the library or even make summary for some publication, they are complained. Just little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their hobby. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to go to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that studying is not important, boring along with can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important for you personally. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever we wish. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. So , this Li Wei can make you really feel more interested to read.
