This WebTutor is an interactive, web-based, teaching and learning resource that is specifically designed for the family law course. WebTutor gives the instructor a web site specifically for his or her class, and this web site contains pre-prepared material that reinforces the concepts discussed in the text. Notes, study sheets, a glossary, frequently asked questions about the content, and quiz questions are included in each chapter of the WebTutor program. The communication tools specific to the WebCT and BlackBoard products give instructors access to their students when they are not in class. Although course-specific material is created to complement the material in the text, the WebTutor materials are completely customizable by the instructor, so it's easy to add the syllabus, class notes, or assignments to the site.
